

Adam, Vienna

July 28, 2020 | Austria, BigSEE Interior Design Award 2020 - Winner, Interior, Residential interior

The central core is a box that operates as an organizer, a divider and, with two separate kitchens, creates an opportunity to get out of the way of each other. Four people with and two people without disabilities and / or learning difficulties live together in one apartment. Everyone lives at eye level. The residents live according to the principle of inclusive living, with all decisions relating to living together being worked out together. In addition to spacious single rooms of the same size as well as a modern and colorful design, the mirror image of the same design of the living room with wet rooms or the two kitchens is deliberately colorfully accentuated and enables a relaxed, pleasant atmosphere of wellbeing, with a life as equal as possible.

What makes this project one-of-a-kind?

The concept was a cool, inclusive community loft for people with and without disabilities, with specific emphasis on the user. Simple, clear materials with bright and cheerful colours create contrasts that are important for the orientation and well-being of the special residents. A cool and relaxed atmosphere was significant to enrich the coexistence of all residents.

Credits

Autors

MEGATABS architekten; Tina Magerling, Theresa Klinger

Client

Jugend am Werk

Year of completion

2019

Location

Vienna, Austria

Total area

220 m²

Photos

Leonhard Hilzensauer

Project Partners

Josef Göbel GmbH

Related posts

Powered by

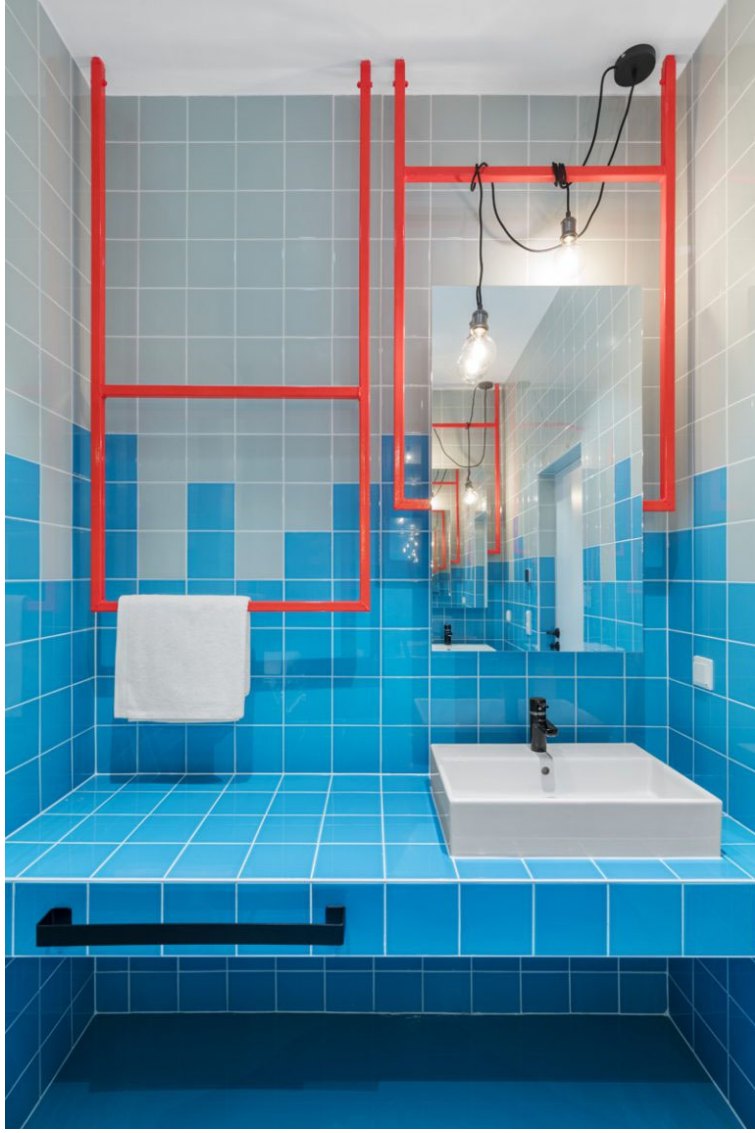

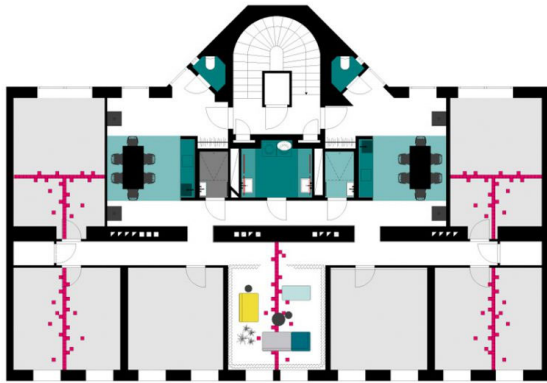

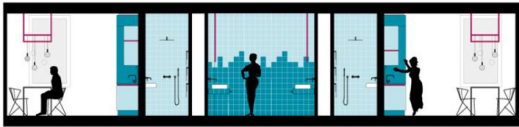

■ GEBERIT

* intra lighting
all visible

■ hansgrohe

AXOR

Zavod Big
Center for creative economy
of Southeast Europe

Contact us

BigSEE
BigSEE Force
City of Design
Press

SUBSCRIBE TO NEWSLETTER